

For Immediate Release
December 21, 2007

Glenbow Museum

A Christmas Gift from Glenbow!

CALGARY – Move over Scrooge! Santa has come a few days early to Glenbow Museum! We're rolling back our admission prices for the holidays – so families can afford to put gifts under the tree AND give themselves the gift of experiencing Glenbow. A family (up to two adults and four kids) can now share a museum adventure for $28 including g.s.t. That's almost 40% less than our usual price of $45!

So come meet Canada's most beloved artist, in Emily Carr: New Perspectives on a Canadian Icon. Glenbow is the only prairie stop for this exhibition – catch it before it leaves on January 27, 2008! Or mix with Mounties and whiskey traders, explorers and wrestlers in our Mavericks gallery. You can also experience the rich and powerful history of the Blackfoot culture in Nitsitapiisinni, the world's first gallery where the aboriginal community tells their own story, in their own words. So much to see and do at Glenbow – your passport to the world!

New pricing starts on Saturday, December 22, 2007.

- 30 -

For more information and details, please contact:

Karin Põldaas

Media and Communications Specialist,

Glenbow Museum

Phone 403.268.4246

Email kpoldaas@glenbow.org